

We are not hiding behind a web site...

Ever scroll through a web site and click on every tab to try and figure out who you are dealing with? You want a face, a name a bio...something...anything! Yet there are no names, maybe no address, no idea how long they have been in business. You don't know if they own the equipment they are trying to sell you or if they have any real employees that can provide the work they promise. Most likely they are a broker trying to sell something that they do not own. Trying to represent themselves as owners. Trying to get you to send them a deposit. Is the broker financially stable? Does he have an office? Does he even have a house? Where does he work from? What will he do with your money? There are too many ways a deal like this can go wrong!

Yes, searching the internet for equipment can be frustrating. There are frauds and fakes. Most brokers have a policy of flooding their websites with almost every model there is of any product on the market - even though there is no such machine available. That is because they hope that the internet search engines "spiders" the product name and guides you to their site. Not really the behavior you would expect from a partner you want to do business with long term.

We learned several decades ago that you cannot sell something you don't own. We buy equipment so we are ready to supply your Press needs. We are for real. With imPRESSIONS you have peace of mind and your investment is intelligent and secure.
